

Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing (PhD)

ADMISSION TO THIS PROGRAM IS TEMPORARILY ON HOLD

Program Overview

The Department of Graduate Nursing Education initiated the first ever PhD in Nursing at a Historically Black College and University. We are confident that the decision is necessary at this time, to ensure to the extent possible, the program integrity and rigor is maintained. The decision affords an opportunity to evaluate and revise the curriculum to ensure it reflects not only core research elements, but also emerging areas of nursing science. In order to accomplish this, we are temporarily deferring admissions.

Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP)

ADMISSION TO THIS PROGRAM IS TEMPORARILY ON HOLD

Program Overview

Hampton University School of Nursing Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) Degree is a post master's program designed to expand the advanced specialty practice practitioner (NPs) role in systems evaluation and change, health policy evaluation, leadership and outcomes research.

We are confident that the decision is necessary at this time, to ensure to the extent possible, the program integrity and rigor is maintained. This decision affords an opportunity to evaluate and revise the curriculum so it reflects not only core research elements, but also emerging areas of nursing science. In order to accomplish this, we are temporarily deferring admissions.

Master of Science in Nursing (MS)

ADMISSION TO ALL PROGRAMS ARE TEMPORARILY ON HOLD

Program Overview

Until recently, the Master of Science in Nursing programs at Hampton University were delivered face to face. The decision at this time to defer admission affords an opportunity to evaluate and revise the curricula to reflect the emerging, priority areas of nursing science. In order to accomplish this, we are temporarily deferring admissions.